McClellan Calls for U. S. Labor Bill of Rights

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Continuing some workers' need more protection within their labor unions, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) proposed today what he called a labor bill of rights.
He offered his proposal as an amendment to the Kennedy labor regulation bill, which survived its first two floor tests Tuesday.
In a prepared speech, McClellan said the Kennedy bill "does not adequately meet the needs of union members for the protection of their rights. It does not afford adequate sanctuary to the exploited and oppressed."
Urging passage of an effective bill, he said the "invasion of unionism by thugs and hoodlums has gone much further and is more extensive than you think."

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Labor-Management Committee, proposed that labor unions be required to write into their constitutions and by-laws a series of provisions designed to assure the rights of individual members.
It was the first of a series of amendments he said he will propose in an effort to cure abuses of union power his committee has uncovered.
McClellan has emerged as the leader of senators who want to end far-reaching provisions to the measure.

Congress Told Integration Laws Futile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. John Patterson of Alabama told members of Congress today that federal laws to force integration are as futile as "trying to sweep the ocean back with a broom."

He said the people in his state will abolish their public schools if it need be to keep them from being segregated.
Patterson was called as a witness before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee which is considering new civil rights legislation. He was to appear later in the day before a similar House Subcommittee.

Race relations in the South "have deteriorated to a sad state," because of Supreme Court decisions and Federal intervention, the Alabama governor declared in a prepared statement. They will grow worse if the pressure continues, he said.
"There no longer is any common ground," he said, "upon which the leaders of the races can meet and work out their differences."
Continuing, Patterson warned the committee bluntly, "the citizens of my state will not tolerate or support to integrate our schools by force, we will have chaos, disorder, possible violence, and we will have to close our schools."

"If that happens," he said, "the Negro will suffer most because most white citizens could afford a private education, but few Negroes could do so."
Patterson told the subcommittee one of the pending measures, which would give the attorney general the right to file civil rights suits, "comes very close to creating

More Violence in N. Carolina Cotton Mills

By NOEL VANCEY
HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — About 350 workers, many of them riding bullet-scarred autos, went to their jobs without incident today after the worst outbreak of violence in the 23-week Hargett-Henderson Cotton Mills strike.
Clusters of pickets watched grimly in a steady drizzle as first-shift employees entered the North and South Henderson plant gates under police protection. There were occasional jeers and shouts.
The scene contrasted sharply with Tuesday night when rifle shots slammed into cars bearing workers, and homemade gasoline bombs burst on the streets.
No one was reported injured, although an official said it was a miracle no one was hurt.
"That's just a sample," a woman shouted. "There'll be more tomorrow night."
It was the worst outbreak of violence in 23 weeks of labor unrest in this industrial city of 10,000 near the Virginia line.
The city looked toward a meeting today in Raleigh for a strike solution from Gov. Luther H. Hodges and officials of the mills and the Textile Workers Union of America.
A strike settlement was reached last weekend. It came apart Monday when the union complained few of its members were getting their jobs back.
Boyd Payton, Carolina director of the union, complained to the governor the mill management had hired new workers for the mills' second and third shifts.
Hodges asked company president John D. Cooper to bring all data on available jobs, along with copies of the proposed contract.
Tuesday night's violence erupted 20 minutes before the approximately 100 workers on the second shift were to leave the plants.
Bottles filled with gasoline were thrown into the streets around the Cost of Living Is Unchanged During March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living was unchanged by the government's held unchanged in March.

The Labor Department announced today its consumer price index stayed at 129.7 in March of the 1947 average, completely the lowest record of relative price stability in a decade.

The index was not fluctuated by more than two points in the past nine months, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said, and now stands two-tenths of a point below the all-time high of 129.9 per cent. reached last July and again in November.

In March, falling food costs, offset higher prices for some other items in the family budget.
"At the same time," the spendable earnings of factory workers reached the highest level in history.
Their actual buying power set a record for March. It stood 7 percent higher last month than a year ago because of rising hourly rates and longer hours worked on the one hand, and stability, meantime, of the cost of living.
Some 1,350,000 workers whose wages are subject to adjustment in line with consumer price changes will receive increases since March living cost remained stable. About 100,000 of these are railroad workers. Another 100,000 are in electrical and aircraft industries.
Food prices dropped four-tenths of one per cent last month, a movement contrary to the usual seasonal trend.

Meat, poultry and fish prices dipped 1.2 per cent and eggs went down .41 per cent.

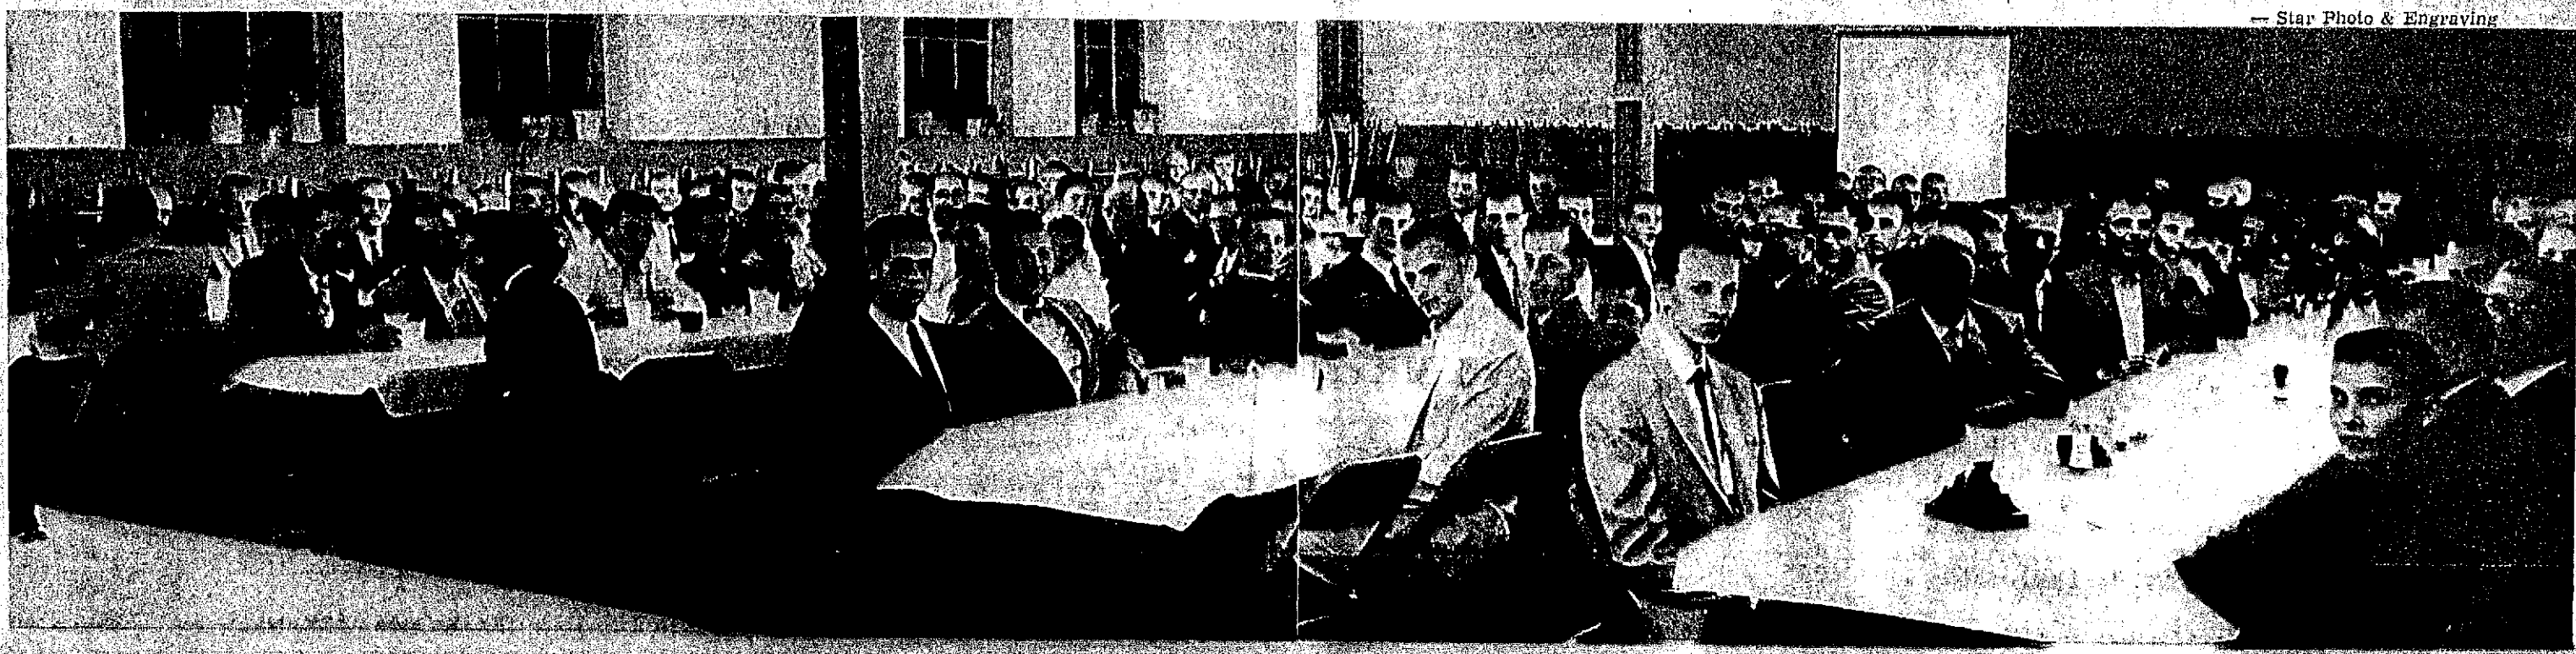

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that the nation's total output of goods and services

Detroit Fans Fed Up With Team Showing

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have had their warning. Seven losses in eight games are costing the owners money and will cost them much more unless the club can pull out fast from the early talisman.

There were 12,937 spectators on hand Tuesday night as Cleveland walloped Detroit 14-1. Many of them booed manager Bill Narman and starting pitcher Paul Foytack when the Indians rolled the Tiger right-hander in the first inning.

Norman got the treatment in the seventh when he replaced George Susce, and again in the ninth when the Indians routed Hank Aguirre.

When the public address man announced that the brand new Tiger seasonbooks were on sale, the booing of the fans practically drowned out his voice.

The crowd booed ex-Tiger Billy

Cold Weather Slows Porker Grid Practice

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Forty-two degree weather hampered the Arkansas Razorbacks yesterday as they resumed spring practice after a two-day layoff.

Coach Frank Broyles worked his charges mainly on fundamentals. "We didn't want to try the specialized stuff because of the weather," he said.

Broyles announced that halfback Billy Kysar, a two-year veteran from Camden, may be lost for the remainder of spring drills. Kysar suffered a knee injury early last week and hasn't been working out.

"We're going to depend heavily on that boy next fall, and we don't want to risk a permanent injury," Broyles said.

Resignation last week of Jim Moody of El Dorado left Kysar the only halfback letterman in the Power camp.

Broyles said he would set up the training pace today and tomorrow then give the Hogs Friday off to prepare for another scrimmage Saturday.

Parliament in China to Give West a Clue

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The activities of Red China's rubber-stamp parliament, the National People's Congress, will be careful watching. The current session may provide important clues to the immediate future of Red Chinese policy.

The parliament is the illoquy platform from which the Peiping regime will announce changes at its top level. The personalities involved in the changes — which the parliament will endorse unanimously — can be a guide to the outside world in plumbing the mysteries of Peiping policy and politics.

Will Red China now begin to throw her weight around in Africa and the Middle East, as well as Asia? Will she apply brakes to the more unrealistic aspects of her economic program? Will she pursue a more fire-eating policy than ever with respect to the United States?

Such questions arise in the light of Mao Tse-tung's decision to give up his government post as chairman — equivalent to the presidency — of Communist China. At 65, Mao will retain his job as Communist party chairman, but it is likely his health has been failing and that he will retire more and more to the background.

A few days ago Peiping radio announced that in the latest full meeting of the Chinese Communist Central Committee, "the candidates for the leading state posts were confirmed." The implication was that a number of changes are to be announced — perhaps a fairly large-scale shifting of top personnel.

There is much talk that old Marshal Chu Teh will succeed to Mao's government post. There is also a possibility that the job will go to the present premier, Liang Shao-chi. If this should come about, it would indicate Red China is increasingly anxious to find the big power club and make her weight felt at top levels in world councils. Chu's wide diplomatic experience would fit in with such a goal.

There are other candidates for the government chairmanship, including veteran Communist theorist Liu Shao-chi. O'ther's whose careers should be watched include such men as Marshal Ho Lung, economist Chen Yun, and Foreign Minister Chen Yi, all vice premiers now.

Ho Lung should also be new prominence in the government. One might well look for increased Chinese interest in such Middle East areas as Iran, Iraq, and African areas. Such interest, indeed, might even clash with Moscow's.

Should Chen Yi become premier in place of Chu En-lai, it might indicate a tougher and more reckless approach to the conflict with the United States over Nationalist China and the offshore islands. Chen Yi is a notorious fire-eater with regard to "liberation" of Formosa.

But a step upward for Chen Yun could indicate a milder policy and even a backing away from the superambitious goals of the economic program. It might hint at a tendency to curb foreign adventuring in the international arena. This is a course the Soviet might welcome, since Peiping belligerence at the wrong time can have grave repercussions for the Kremlin. Chen Yun is regarded as strongly pro-Moscow.

It matters little who becomes chairman of government in Peiping. The Communist party will still run everything. But the choice of personalities to fill top government positions can be important as a fairly reliable barometer for judging how the political wind blows in Peiping.

465 billion dollars a year in the first quarter of 1959. This gross national product was increasing at such a rate that, if continued, it could reach 471 billions or more in the second quarter, the report said.

"The stability of the price index makes this all good progress, the department said, because rising prices do not therefore inflate the production estimate.

Almost all the other indicators of the health of the economy went up in March too, the department said in its magazine, Survey of Current Business.

One black forecast came in a separate report by the Agriculture Department. It said farmers realized net income this year probably will be down about a billion dollars, nearly 8 per cent. Realized net income is what the farmer has left over after he pays for production costs.

Inmates of Boys School Escape

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two inmates of the Negro Boys Industrial School at nearby Wrightsville escaped last night and State Police broadcast a search bulletin for them today.

A school official identified the pair as Fred McKinley, 17, of Little Rock, and Benny Gaylin, of Jonesboro.

Recently six boys escaped from the institution in one day but all were picked up and returned within a week.

A fire in a school dormitory March 5 took the lives of 21 inmates. About 80 boys are at the institution now.

Churchill Seeks Seat in Commons

Arkansan Killed in Indiana

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Edward W. Seaford, 57, of Kensett, Ark., was killed yesterday when his automobile and a Nickel Plate Railroad freight train collided at a crossing near here.

State Police said Seaford failed to stop for warning lights. The accident occurred on U. S. Highway 31 about seven miles south of here.

Indiana has more than 20 million acres in national forests.

ing a gaseous system.

He said it would allow complaining individuals to bring charges without ever making themselves known, and perhaps lead to a "secret" police force where the citizens inform on each other to the government.

Opposing another bill to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission, the governor accused the federal agency of "reprehensible" conduct during its recent investigation of Negro voting complaints in Alabama.

He said the commission "failed to do anything constructive, but on the contrary, further widened the breach between races."

Because of that, he added, Macon county is still without a functioning voter registration board and people are reluctant to serve in other counties.

"If the federal government continues its present course," Patterson warned, "a breakdown in our white election machinery might result."

He also protested against pending measures to make bombing of church and school buildings a federal offense.

Alabama has adequate laws to protect public property, the governor argued, and these will be enforced.

But he urged Congress to give the FBI authority to track down fleeing bombthrowers and return them to Alabama for prosecution.

State Highway patrolmen and local police were on hand to escort workers from the plants.

Police said at least 20 shots were fired at the South Henderson plant, 9 or 10 at the North Henderson mill.

The plants were struck Nov. 17 after failure by negotiators to agree on an arbitration clause in a new contract. About 1,000 of the company's 1,200 workers walked out. Cooper reopened both mills Feb. 16 without a contract.

McClellan Calls

such a move, Sens. Barry Goldwater (Ariz.) and Carl T. Curtis (Neb.) said they would follow McClellan's lead in their efforts to amend the measure.

Tuesday, the Senate turned down 67-27, an attempt by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) to knock out of the bill all of the changes it makes in the Taft-Hartley law. These changes are strongly supported by labor.

Next the Senate rejected, 67-34, a move by Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) to substitute the Eisenhower administration's Taft-Hartley package for the provisions in the Kennedy bill.

Chief effect of this substitute would have been to add provisions aimed at organizational picketing and secondary boycotts. The administration contends these are essential to any effective legislation.

McClellan said he will offer similar provisions as separate amendments.

Program Will Battle Against Inflation

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Cabinet committee headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon has charted an anti-inflation program in which rising wages would be linked with increased economic production.

In its first major decision since it organized a month ago, President Eisenhower's Committee on Price Stability has decided to launch a campaign directed at spurring economic growth.

Reporting this unanimous decision, Executive Director Allen Wallis emphasized in an interview that the theory that the way to curb inflation is to prevent all wage increases.

"There has been too much of the atmosphere that the way to keep prices stable is merely to keep wages down," Wallis said.

"We encourage those who give us our present high standard of living and they are not necessarily inflationary. Wages should continue to go up as productivity goes up."

Wallis, a Chicago economist, said the committee believes that, in addition to combating inflation, there are compelling international reasons to encourage economic growth at home.

Nixon has made it clear he personally believes wage rises should be tied to increases in productivity. He contends that when pay boosts are not accompanied by production they are inflationary.

Wallis said the Nixon committee has been meeting frequently and expects soon to announce plans for a sustained attack on inflation.

Besides the vice president,

Martin too, but the fiery little second baseman had the last laugh. One spectator near the Cleveland dugout shouted to Martin, "You're lousy, Martin. You're not hitting."

Martin replied:

"It's a good thing I'm not. It's embarrassing enough with all these over guys hitting."

This was a belligerent crowd and the attendance — which dropped more than 173,000 last season — is not to show an even sharper decline.

The Tigers' faltering starts are fast becoming a baseball legend. Only one first division finish in eight seasons has the fans moaning and there is evidence they are going to be a lot slower with the dollar at the box office unless the Tigers do something except say "Well, hi next year."

Speedier Mail in Arkansas Seen

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Speedier mail service is in sight in Arkansas.

Postal officials say the program involves rescheduling of mail transportation routes throughout the state. Some changes already have been made and others will be inaugurated in the next few weeks.

Postmasters or their representatives from 25 central Arkansas post offices met here last night to hear the program explained by regional Post Office Department officials from St. Louis.

W. R. Sanders, regional postal installation manager and one of the visitors, said it was hoped the changes could be made without additional cost.

members are Secretary of the Treasury Robert R. Anderson, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss, Secretary of Labor James F. Mitchell, and Chairman Raymond J. Bauerle of the Council of Economic Advisors.

DOROTHY DIX
Hot Hubcaps Steer Boy Straight to Hot Water

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My son is a typical teenager, a normal boy who has never given us any trouble. He has a car, somewhat of a jalopy, but he is proud of it and spends many hours working on it and fixing it up. The other day a boy friend of his came to see him and he showed him an expensive set of hubcaps. He seemed to know the caps were stolen but did not see why he shouldn't buy them. I have tried to explain that he is encouraging not only the dishonesty of the other boy but the on-life hubcap racket. He can't see any of my arguments. Do you think I am being unreasonable in forbidding him to buy the hubcaps? Perhaps if you agree that it is entirely wrong to buy anything that you know has been stolen, and he reads it in the paper, it might be more convincing than my words. — D.M.

DEAR D.M.: Your boy is certainly hard to convince. You've given him several very sound reasons for refusing the hubcaps, all of them valid arguments that he should understand. It is certainly wrong to buy anything that has been stolen. In law, this makes one an accessory after the fact, which is in effect a secondary criminal. When this particular hubcap racket is investigated, as it most surely will be, your son's possession of the property will be questioned. At best he will lose the caps and the small amount of money he paid for them; at worst he could be arrested and he might have a hard time proving that he wasn't involved personally in the theft. Point out, as a last argument legal and morally wrong.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: If two boys come to my home, uninvited, what should I do? — Faye

DEAR FAYE: Ah, here's where we separate the children from the grown-ups. Situations like this come up all through life and the way in which you handle them is the difference between an awkward girl and a poised woman. The big secret is: Don't make a big to-do about it. Don't get embarrassed or ill at ease. Get them talking about some mutual interest while you gather your wits. Drag out the record player and hope you have some very new recordings they haven't heard. This will stimulate conversation. Ask one to take care of the records and the other to help with refreshments. A smooth evening can emerge from a difficult situation. It's up to you.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My sister borrows my clothes and when I complain to Mom she says, "Oh, you want her clothes, too?" But I don't. Must I buy a vault to put my clothes in? — Anita

DEAR ANITA: Mother should protect your rights. If you don't want your clothes borrowed, and don't let your sister or friend should snatch clothes from you. Right and fair thing to do. If you must provide your own protection, get a padlock for your closet.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

News Briefs

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A two-story building slid off a hill of control on a rain-slick stretch of U.S. 66 Monday, killing one person and injuring 17, including the driver. The accident was about 25 miles west of here.

NACODICHES, Tex. (AP)—A towering old courthouse collapsed Monday onto the modern structure replacing it, but a coffee break kept six persons out of the path of tons of rock. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

Officials said the old Nacodiches County Courthouse, a three-story building, collapsed onto the new courthouse. Tons of debris buried the office of the tax assessor, collector, C. D. Thomas, shortly after he and five employees left for coffee.

BARRINGTON, R.I. (AP)—Police staged Monday their first drive-in raid since the town went dry 25 years ago.

They seized 90 gallons of wine and arrested Albert Piccerilli, 75, on a charge he was selling it at $1.50 a gallon.

Police Chief George W. Robbins said several high school teenagers told him they gained admittance to Piccerilli's cellar by using the passwords: "Rise, set, inc." or just "Booze."

Barrington is the only dry community in Rhode Island.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Fireman John W. Makemason was listening for a rattle as he drove Monday. Now everything rattles in his pickup truck.

While Makemason had his ear cocked for the rattle, the truck jumped a curb, knocked down a sign and "smashed" into a tree. Makemason had to get 20 stitches in his forehead.

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP)—An argument over how loud a television set should play led to a 25-year prison term for Malcolm Holland, 50.

Holland, of Pomona, Mo., was sentenced Monday after pleading guilty to second degree murder. Officers said an argument over the TV sound volume developed at the home of Floyd T. Brownfield, 47, at Pomona Feb. 18 while Holland was visiting there after a furlough trip.

Holland started to leave the house. At the door he picked up his rifle, turned and shot Brownfield in the head eight times.

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—Several seals loped up a stairway of an apartment here and dived happily into a tank where a woman was washing clothes.

The woman fainted.

A giraffe was lassoed near a church in the nearby village of Borsca. Another giraffe and two zebras were cornered at neighboring Origano.

The animals all broke for freedom when a circus truck overturned. All were recaptured except the giraffe and an Indian goat. They were killed by motorists who didn't see them in time.

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—A 6-year-old girl is the first casualty of the Oregon Centennial wagon train.

To Ann Marshall, a spectator, was bitten on the right shoulder and thrown to the ground by one of the horses Monday. She was treated for a bruise, given a tetanus shot and taken home.

To Ann was among 1,000 persons who watched the seven wagons pass through Olathe Monday night and will make a short 10-mile move to Gardner Friday. At Gardner the Oregon Trail split off from the Santa Fe Trail and headed northwest.

Ahead lies most of the 2,000-mile journey to Independence, Ore., dramatizing the history of the old Oregon Trail. The train left Independence, Mo., Sunday.

TOKYO (AP)—Red China announced today it will increase its military spending this year 10 per cent more than the 1958 figure.

Finance Minister Li Hsien-shan told the National People's Congress in Peking the rubber stamp Communist Parliament that defense spending for 1959 will be the equivalent of about 2 1/2 billion dollars.

The minister did not say what the extra funds would be used for, but said they were for "defensive" purposes. He said the Chinese government is sending thousands of reinforcements and much material to the remote, mountainous area.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Police today held five leaders of the Conservative party youth movement on charges of plotting against the government.

The five were arrested in connection with recent state bombings in Managua and distribution of leaflets urging revolt.

Police officials claimed to have smashed a plot and said Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the army commander, would release the youth leaders.

WINDSOR, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth I marked a lonely 33rd birthday today.

Her husband, Prince Philip, is in Latin America on a world tour. Her mother and Princess Margaret are visiting Rome.

The queen's two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, are with her at Windsor Castle. But Charles has just recovered from the chicken pox and Anne is isolated after catching the disease on Saturday.

A few days were flown but otherwise there were no public celebrations.

THE STORY: Sentimental against the Empire ranch, stirred by Jim Furlong's one-man war, is beginning to spread. Buchanan, Fyfe, editor of Junction's small Clarion, has been thrown in jail for taking sides against Empire.

A horse and rider passed Link as he neared the courthouse. Link was quite sure it was Mace Gillum. Now, seeing him pull up and dismount at Doc Slattery's house, Link wondered if Gillum was ailing.

Hipolito Hernandez, the old jailer, had gone home, but a lamp burned in the sheriff's office and the big keying for the jail's four cells hung on the wall behind Link's desk. Opening the corridor door, Link saw Fyfe methodically pacing his dimly lighted cell.

"You get enough supper?" Link inquired solicitously.

"Support!" Fyfe exclaimed. "Do animals eat on their first day in a cage?"

"Guess not," Link admitted. Unlocking the cell gate he then glanced at the water bucket, seeing that it was filled, and asked, "You got clean blankets on the bunk?"

"Nothing is clean in this horrible place," Fyfe muttered indignantly and continued his restless pacing. The foul stench of captivity pervaded everything. It penetrates my pores and permeates my soul.

Link sniffed the air. Except for a slight odor of disinfectant, and soap water, the place smelled clean enough. "It's not that bad, Buchanan," he said, mildly disapproving.

Ignoring that, Fyfe asked, "When will my trial be held?"

"Well, it'll take a few days to get a jury."

Fyfe grimaced. "Old Judge Ransome has offered to defend me—if he can stay sober long enough to bone up on Blackstone's fine points of what constitutes slander. Do you think he can convince a jury that I'm innocent?"

Link shook his head.

"Then you think I'll be sentenced to prison?" Fyfe asked.

"Well, I don't know about slander. It never came up before since I've been sheriff. But Fred Eggleston seems to think he can get a conviction easily, and so does Judge Barstow. They're considerably put out about what you said. Too bad you ever wrote that piece, Buchanan. A man can't fight Empire with fancy words. Folks don't cotton to what a man says unless he does something about it. They like a man that does things."

Fyfe thought about that. His bow tie was awry, the flower in his lapel wilted, but his eyes were bright and lively as always. "The differences between talk and action," he mused. "Between a Jim Furlong and a Buchanan Fyfe."

Link nodded. "Folks may not like what Furlong did, but they'll give him credit for having enough guts to hit a lunk, regardless."

Fyfe took another turn around the cell. "Talk versus action. Now all semblance of irritation and complaint was gone from his voice. "It always said you were a discerning individual, Sidney. You give me hope."

Link said, "I'll see you in the morning." It was leaving the cell when Fyfe's hand darted out and grabbed his pistol from holster.

Fyfe backed off, holding the weapon so that it was aimed at Link's belt buckle. "I dislike the necessity of doing this, Sidney. But the choice is between embarrassment for you or prison for me."

"You—you're breaking jail!" Fyfe nodded, roached for the keyring and snatched it from Link's hand. "A month in jail would drive me insane," he said. "A year would kill me. Come into the cell, Sidney."

Link stood there gawking at his scholarly assailant.

Fyfe wagged the gun, said "I'll shoot if you force me to."

"Go to thunder!" Link muttered.
